RFP Number: ISD200901-RB

Senior Business Systems Analyst for Web Development

October 8, 2009

1. What web content management system is this team currently using?

   Answer: We're in the process of implementing OpenText, but the current site is not using a web content management system.

2. What databases are they using?

   Answer: Oracle

3. What web application development tools are being used?

   Answer: ColdFusion®

4. What reporting tools are being used?

   Answer: Access or ColdFusion®

5. Is hands-on development experience required for this position? If not, is it viewed as helpful or are tasks completely separate?

   Answer: It is unlikely that the Senior Business Systems Analyst (SBSA) will be asked to do development. It's helpful for the SBSA to know what the development process is as it helps the Senior Business Systems Analyst develop specifications and requirements which lends itself to the development process, but it's not required.

6. Is specific experience with Open Text and/or LiveServer required? Are there other tools which it might be helpful to have experience with?

   Answer: Knowledge of and use of the Microsoft Office suite of tools is required. OpenText and /or Liveserver experience is not required.
